

Grading: Research Resources Blog Grading Rubric (150 total points)

Book	Points
Correct Citation – 4 points 3-4 points – citation has been created properly using MLA citation style 1-2 points – multiple errors in citation; important citation information missing 0 points – citation will be difficult for another to locate due to insufficient information in citation; incorrect citation style.
Source Relevant to Your Topic – 4 points 3-4 points – reputable source that is completely relevant to your topic 1-2 points – authorship of source is questionable; item is not very relevant to topic and better source could have been found. 0 points – overtly inappropriate and unreliable source; topic barely discussed
Blog Posting – 5 points 4-5 points – proper grammar, spelling, capitalization, punctuation and sentence structure; succinct summary of at least 3 sentences; summary will easily make sense to others. 1-3 points – comprehensible, but room for improvement in the areas listed above. 0 points – meaning unclear due to grammar, spelling, etc. errors.
Comments on Group Member Blog – 2 points 2 points - demonstrated that you read their posting by reacting to or asking about what your classmate wrote 1 point – questionable whether you read or understood classmate’s posting 0 points – no demonstration of having read classmate’s posting
TOTAL out of 15 possible points

Reference Book	Points
Correct Citation – 4 points 3-4 points – citation has been created properly using MLA citation style 1-2 point – multiple errors in citation; important citation information missing 0 points – citation will be difficult for another to locate due to insufficient information in citation; incorrect citation style.
Source Relevant to Your Topic – 4 points 3-4 points – reputable source that is completely relevant to your topic 1-2 points – authorship of source is questionable; item is not very relevant to topic and better source could have been found. 0 points – overtly inappropriate and unreliable source; topic barely discussed
Blog Posting – 5 points 4-5 points – proper grammar, spelling, capitalization, punctuation and sentence structure; succinct summary of at least 3 sentences; summary will easily make sense to others. 1-3 points – comprehensible, but room for improvement in the areas listed above. 0 points – meaning unclear due to grammar, spelling, etc. errors.
Comments on Group Member Blog – 2 points 2 points - demonstrated that you read their posting by reacting to or asking about what your classmate wrote 1 point – questionable whether you read or understood classmate’s posting 0 points – no demonstration of having read classmate’s posting
TOTAL out of 15 possible points

Newspaper Article	Points
Correct Citation – 4 points 3-4 points – citation has been created properly using MLA citation style 1-2 points – multiple errors in citation; important citation information missing 0 points – citation will be difficult for another to locate due to insufficient information in citation; incorrect citation style.
Source Relevant to Your Topic – 4 points 3-4 points – reputable source that is completely relevant to your topic 1-2 points – authorship of source is questionable; item in not very relevant to topic and better source could have been found. 0 points – overtly inappropriate and unreliable source; topic barely discussed
Blog Posting – 5 points 4-5 points – proper grammar, spelling, capitalization, punctuation and sentence structure; succinct summary of at least 3 sentences; summary will easily make sense to others. 1-3 points – comprehensible, but room for improvement in the areas listed above. 0 points – meaning unclear due to grammar, spelling, etc. errors.
Comments on Group Member Blog – 2 points 4-5 points - demonstrated that you read their posting by reacting to or asking about what your classmate wrote 1-3 point – questionable whether you read or understood classmate’s posting 0 points – no demonstration of having read classmate’s posting
TOTAL out of 15 possible points

Magazine Article	Points
Correct Citation – 4 points 3-4 points – citation has been created properly using MLA citation style 1-2 points – multiple errors in citation; important citation information missing 0 points – citation will be difficult for another to locate due to insufficient information in citation; incorrect citation style.
Source Relevant to Your Topic – 4 points 3-4 points – reputable source that is completely relevant to your topic 1-2 points – authorship of source is questionable; item in not very relevant to topic and better source could have been found. 0 points – overtly inappropriate and unreliable source; topic barely discussed
Blog Posting – 5 points 4-5 points – proper grammar, spelling, capitalization, punctuation and sentence structure; succinct summary of at least 3 sentences; summary will easily make sense to others. 1-3 points – comprehensible, but room for improvement in the areas listed above. 0 points – meaning unclear due to grammar, spelling, etc. errors.
Comments on Group Member Blog – 2 points 2 points - demonstrated that you read their posting by reacting to or asking about what your classmate wrote 1 point – questionable whether you read or understood classmate’s posting 0 points – no demonstration of having read classmate’s posting
TOTAL out of 15 possible points

Journal Article	Points
Correct Citation – 4 points 3-4 points – citation has been created properly using MLA citation style 1-2 points – multiple errors in citation; important citation information missing 0 points – citation will be difficult for another to locate due to insufficient information in citation; incorrect citation style.
Source Relevant to Your Topic – 4 points 3-4 points – reputable source that is completely relevant to your topic 1-2 points – authorship of source is questionable; item is not very relevant to topic and better source could have been found. 0 points – overtly inappropriate and unreliable source; topic barely discussed
Blog Posting – 5 points 4-5 points – proper grammar, spelling, capitalization, punctuation and sentence structure; succinct summary of at least 3 sentences; summary will easily make sense to others. 1-3 points – comprehensible, but room for improvement in the areas listed above. 0 points – meaning unclear due to grammar, spelling, etc. errors.
Comments on Group Member Blog – 2 points 2 points - demonstrated that you read their posting by reacting to or asking about what your classmate wrote 1 point – questionable whether you read or understood classmate’s posting 0 points – no demonstration of having read classmate’s posting
TOTAL out of 15 possible points

Blog or Wiki	Points
Correct Citation – 4 points 3-4 points – citation has been created properly using MLA citation style 1-2 points – multiple errors in citation; important citation information missing 0 points – citation will be difficult for another to locate due to insufficient information in citation; incorrect citation style.
Source Relevant to Your Topic – 4 points 3-4 points – reputable source that is completely relevant to your topic 1-2 points – authorship of source is questionable; item is not very relevant to topic and better source could have been found. 0 points – overtly inappropriate and unreliable source; topic barely discussed
Blog Posting – 5 points 4-5 points – proper grammar, spelling, capitalization, punctuation and sentence structure; succinct summary of at least 3 sentences; summary will easily make sense to others. 1-3 points – comprehensible, but room for improvement in the areas listed above. 0 points – meaning unclear due to grammar, spelling, etc. errors.
Comments on Group Member Blog – 2 points 2 points - demonstrated that you read their posting by reacting to or asking about what your classmate wrote 1 point – questionable whether you read or understood classmate’s posting 0 points – no demonstration of having read classmate’s posting
TOTAL out of 15 possible points

Reputable Website	Points
Correct Citation – 4 points 3-4 points – citation has been created properly using MLA citation style 1-2 point – multiple errors in citation; important citation information missing 0 points – citation will be difficult for another to locate due to insufficient information in citation; incorrect citation style.
Source Relevant to Your Topic – 4 points 3-4 points – reputable source that is completely relevant to your topic 1-2 points – authorship of source is questionable; item in not very relevant to topic and better source could have been found. 0 points – overtly inappropriate and unreliable source; topic barely discussed
Blog Posting – 5 points 4-5 points – proper grammar, spelling, capitalization, punctuation and sentence structure; succinct summary of at least 3 sentences; summary will easily make sense to others. 1-3 points – comprehensible, but room for improvement in the areas listed above. 0 points – meaning unclear due to grammar, spelling, etc. errors.
Comments on Group Member Blog – 2 points 2 points - demonstrated that you read their posting by reacting to or asking about what your classmate wrote 1 point – questionable whether you read or understood classmate’s posting 0 points – no demonstration of having read classmate’s posting
TOTAL out of 15 possible points

Image	Points
Correct Citation – 4 points 3-4 points – citation has been created properly using MLA citation style 1-2 point – multiple errors in citation; important citation information missing 0 points – citation will be difficult for another to locate due to insufficient information in citation; incorrect citation style.
Source Relevant to Your Topic – 4 points 3-4 points – reputable source that is completely relevant to your topic 1-2 points – authorship of source is questionable; item in not very relevant to topic and better source could have been found. 0 points – overtly inappropriate and unreliable source; topic barely discussed
Blog Posting – 5 points 4-5 points – proper grammar, spelling, capitalization, punctuation and sentence structure; succinct summary of at least 3 sentences; summary will easily make sense to others. 1-3 points – comprehensible, but room for improvement in the areas listed above. 0 points – meaning unclear due to grammar, spelling, etc. errors.
Comments on Group Member Blog – 2 points 2 points - demonstrated that you read their posting by reacting to or asking about what your classmate wrote 1 point – questionable whether you read or understood classmate’s posting 0 points – no demonstration of having read classmate’s posting
TOTAL out of 15 possible points

Video Clip	Points
Correct Citation – 4 points 3-4 points – citation has been created properly using MLA citation style 1-2 points – multiple errors in citation; important citation information missing 0 points – citation will be difficult for another to locate due to insufficient information in citation; incorrect citation style.
Source Relevant to Your Topic – 4 points 3-4 points – reputable source that is completely relevant to your topic 1-2 points – authorship of source is questionable; item in not very relevant to topic and better source could have been found. 0 points – overtly inappropriate and unreliable source; topic barely discussed
Blog Posting – 5 points 4-5 points – proper grammar, spelling, capitalization, punctuation and sentence structure; succinct summary of at least 3 sentences; summary will easily make sense to others. 1-3 points – comprehensible, but room for improvement in the areas listed above. 0 points – meaning unclear due to grammar, spelling, etc. errors.
Comments on Group Member Blog – 2 points 2 points - demonstrated that you read their posting by reacting to or asking about what your classmate wrote 1 point – questionable whether you read or understood classmate’s posting 0 points – no demonstration of having read classmate’s posting
TOTAL out of 15 possible points

Other	Points
Correct Citation – 4 points 3-4 points – citation has been created properly using MLA citation style 1-2 points – multiple errors in citation; important citation information missing 0 points – citation will be difficult for another to locate due to insufficient information in citation; incorrect citation style.
Source Relevant to Your Topic – 4 points 3-4 points – reputable source that is completely relevant to your topic 1-2 points – authorship of source is questionable; item in not very relevant to topic and better source could have been found. 0 points – overtly inappropriate and unreliable source; topic barely discussed
Blog Posting – 5 points 4-5 points – proper grammar, spelling, capitalization, punctuation and sentence structure; succinct summary of at least 3 sentences; summary will easily make sense to others. 1-3 points – comprehensible, but room for improvement in the areas listed above. 0 points – meaning unclear due to grammar, spelling, etc. errors.
Comments on Group Member Blog – 2 points 2 points - demonstrated that you read their posting by reacting to or asking about what your classmate wrote 1 point – questionable whether you read or understood classmate’s posting 0 points – no demonstration of having read classmate’s posting
TOTAL out of 15 possible points	